DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,6,7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Traister---3,881,085. Traister teaches a fuser control and monitors the voltage level of a phase of voltage via winding 53 of the line voltage transformer. Paragraph 18 in Traister sets forth that , “when the charge on capacitor 70 reaches a predetermined level as determined by resistors 74,75, amplifier 66 is switched back to a non-conductive state. “. This turns on the heating power to the fuser element. It is clear that every cycle of voltage is monitored in Traister and if the cycle has a low amplitude or voltage amplitude, the fuser element is not energized. Scr 46 is controlled by line 69 and thus teaches a control unit to control the energization of the heater lamp, as claimed. Applicants attention is directed to paragraph 9 in Traister, Summary of the Invention, which states that, “it is an object of the present invention to provide a power controller for fusers permitting the fuser to be designed for minimum anticipated line voltages with the assurance that line voltages over and above the minimum line voltage will be accommodated without adverse effect on the fuser or fuser operation”.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-5,8-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art of record does not teach the particular pulse delay circuit and control signal based on a comparison of the same with a pulse reference signal.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
